PHOTO PAGE

This document sets out details of the aircraft operated by the Royal Thai Air Force (RTAF) and its predecessors since 1913. In addition, details of the aircraft designation systems, and of the serial number systems used, are set out.

Military Assistance Program (MAP) data below is largely courtesy of Sid Nanson plus the NARA archive at <http://aad.archives.gov/aad/series-description.jsp?s=3284&cat=GS30&bc=.sl>. Note that all FY 1963 dates mean 1963 or earlier; eg. the Bearcats listed as FY 1963 were in fact delivered between 1951 and 1956. The abbreviation 'MAP' is used throughout below, although the programme appears to have been called Military Defense Assistance Program (MDAP) pre-1958.

This listing is largely based on personal observations and research, with thanks also due to the Royal Thai Air Force, many Air Britain publications, Marco Dijkshoorn (Scramble), Ed Young's "Aerial Nationalism – A History of Aviation in Thailand" (Smithsonian 1995), Andreas Parsch, Martin Best, Gordon Wimmer, Sakpinit Promthep and others.

In the aircraft listings below, the suffix * after a serial or c/n indicates that this has been physically checked against the airframe. Details of previous and subsequent histories shown in green italics thus [nnnnn]

Type Designator and Serial Number Systems

The RTAF and its predecessors have operated several type designator and serial number systems since its formation in 1913. The earlier systems are not well-researched, but there have been several. The initial aircraft operated from 1913 until the end of World War 1 seem to have had no formal type designators or serials issued, relying on codes for identification.

“Single-letter Type System” (circa 1918 to 1932)

The first formal system was used probably from the end of World War 1 until at least the early 1930's. An example confirmed from a photo would be Breguet 14 B.278/65.

This system seems to have used a serial prefixed by a letter indicating the basic type, believed to be:-

- 'B' = Breguet;
- 'S' = Spad;
- 'N' = Nieuport (of all sub-types)

Then a 3-figure individual aircraft number (the exact meaning of which is unclear as the numbers, in this example 278, are too high to be just sequential).

Then (following a /) two numbers indicating the year of procurement in the Buddhist calendar. For Breguet 14 B.278/65 the /65 indicates an aircraft procured in 1922 (65 = 2465 = 1922).

Two further characters ด.ม. (= D.M.) often follow these serials, believed to indicate 'Don Mueang' where the aircraft were built.

Externally, unit codes were worn, unrelated to the true serial. For example these two Breguet 14's are coded ပ.၂/၈ (B.2/8) and ပ.၂/၅ (B.2/3), showing them to be from Kong Bin Yai 2 (Group 2) with individual codes 8 and 3:-

From 1924 the 3-figure individual aircraft number changed to a 2-figure one, an example being Nieuport N.82/68, a 1925 acquisition. It is not known if aircraft with the earlier 3-figure individual aircraft numbers were re-serialised with 2-figure ones.

“Double-letter Type System” (1932 to mid-1930’s)

The “single-letter type system” continued, with inconsistencies, until October 1932 when the “double-letter type system” came in, using a serial prefixed by two letters indicating the basic type, believed to be:-

- S.P. for Spad;
- N.L. for Nieuport-Delage NiD29C.1;
- B.O. for Boeing 100E (P-12E);
- H.K. for Heinkel HD43;
- P.S. for Paribatra

“First Numerical Type System” (mid-1930’s to circa 1945)

By the mid-1930’s most types had switched to a “numerical type system”, the serial describing the aircraft role, type, individual serial and year of acquisition, an example being the Curtiss Hawk 75N in the RTAF Museum, 16-8/81.

၈ ၆ - ၈ / ၈ ၈
 1 6 - 8 / 8 1

Briefly, in this case:-

- ‘1’ indicates that the Hawk 75N is a fighter type;
- ‘6’ indicates that the Hawk 75N is the 6th fighter type procured;
- ‘8’ indicates the 8th Hawk 75N procured;
- ‘81’ indicates the year of procurement as 2481 in the Buddhist calendar (= 1938).

At least two types changed from the earlier “double-letter type system” to the “first numerical type system”, the Nieuport-Delage NiD29C.1 changing from N.L. to Type 19, and the Paribatra changing from P.S. to Type 21.

“US Type System” (circa 1945 to 1949)

The “first numerical type system” system, although continuing formally until replaced in 1949 by the current one, seems not to have been used for aircraft procured between the end of World War 2 and 1949. Such types were given Type designations matching those of the supplier, for example the Beech C-45 used Type C-45 in recognition of its US designation, whilst the Miles Magister was Type Fh.T.5, the basis of which is unknown.

“Second Numerical Type System” (1949 to date)

The current system has been in place since the issue of Air Force Technical Bulletin Number A.3/3548 on 3rd March 1949. This system is similar to the “first numerical type system”, and describes the aircraft role, type, individual serial and year of acquisition. The system is however much more logical and has been applied rigorously.

As an example, the sixth F-86L was B.Kh.17k-6/06

บ	ข	๑	๗	ก	-	๖	/	๐	๖
B.	Kh.	1	7	k	-	6	/	0	6

Briefly, in this case:-

- ‘B.’ indicates an aircraft (‘bin’ = aircraft in Thai), and is common to all types. This first character is not always worn.
- ‘Kh’ indicates that the aircraft’s role is that of ‘fighter’;
- ‘17’ indicates that the F-86 is the 17th fighter type;
- ‘k’ indicates the first sub-type; in this example the F-86F is Kh.17, whereas the F-86L is Kh.17k;
- ‘6’ indicates the 6th F-86 procured;
- ‘06’ indicates the year of procurement as 2506 in the Buddhist calendar (= 1963).

Sub-types use:-

- ก (usually transliterated as k) for the first sub-type;
- ข (usually transliterated as Kh) for the second sub-type;
- ค (usually transliterated as Kh2) for the third sub-type;
- ง (usually transliterated as Ng) for the fourth sub-type

For example

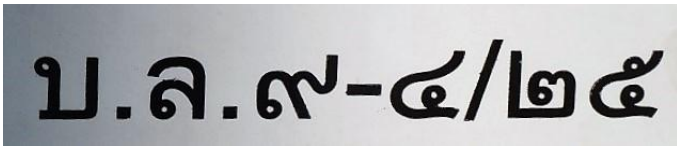

- Bell UH-1H = H.6 = ฮี๖
- Bell UH-1N = H.6k = ฮี๖ก
- Bell 412 = H.6Kh = ฮี๖ข
- Bell 412HP/SP = H.6Kh2 = ฮี๖ค
- Bell 412EP = H.6Ng = ฮี๖ง

These serials are almost without exception (T-33's being one) applied to the aircraft in Thai script, and are usually quite small. In addition many types wore a larger and more obvious serial based on their origin, for example F-86L B.Kh.17k-6/06 was also marked '30843' (being ex 53-0843), plus a squadron code '1221'.

In some cases the role of an aircraft changed, or aircraft had a dual role. In such cases two role designator letters may be used. For example the T-28 was allocated a basic role designator letter in the trainer series as 'F13'. However most T-28's fulfilled a ground attack role, and most therefore wore serials in the 'B.JF13-x/xx' series, 'J' indicating the attack role.

Helicopters typically do not now wear the บ ('B') prefix to serials. It is not clear if this character is formally part of the serial or not.

Examples of some serial presentations in the current system:-

B.L.9-4/25 = GAF N22B Nomad

BJ6-12/15 = Cessna A-37B

(B.F.11-) 45-31 = Lockheed T-33A USAF 80525

B.T.L.7 1/22 = IAI Arava

T.2-40/16 = Cessna Bird Dog

H.6Kh 1/25 = Bell 412 code '33035'

H.6-37/18 = Bell UH-1H

H.4k-34-09 = Sikorsky S-58T

The 1949 Air Force Technical Bulletin allocated role designators in retrospect to all earlier types except the Breguets and Nieuports acquired in 1913. Using the example of the RTAF Museum Curtiss Hawk 75N, this would have worn 16-8/81 when in service, but was allocated role and type Kh11 in the 1949 system, even though no Hawk 75N would ever wear such marks.

Aircraft role designators in the current system are listed below:-

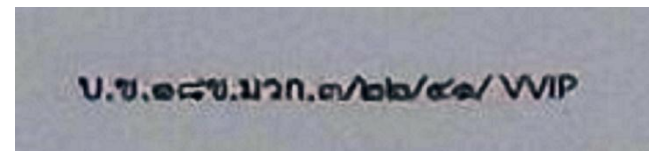

Roman	Thai	Role	Roman	Thai	Role

“Royal Flight”

Aircraft operated by Crown Prince Vajiralongkorn’s personal unit (often referred to as 904 Squadron and later as Deachochai 3), such as the Boeing 737 and Northrop F-5, and continuing when he became King in late 2016, use a similar serial system to that described above, but with the addition of ‘MVK’ or ‘VPR’ and some other detail changes.

B.L.11k.VPR 04/50 = Boeing 737-8Z6 (ex B.L.11Kh2-1/50)
VPR = Vajiralongkorn Prathom-a-Rachathirat (ie. King Vajiralongkorn)

B.Kh.18Kh.MVK.3/22/41/VVIP = Northrop F-5E (ex B.Kh.18Kh-31/24)
MVK = Maha Vajiralongkorn (ie. Crown Prince Vajiralongkorn)

These serials replaced those previously used on the same aircraft whilst in RTAF service.

“904 Squadron” (never a formal RTAF unit) was formed c.1990 to operate the (then) Crown Prince’s Northrop F-5 fleet, until this unit was re-organised as Deachochai 3 in 1998, once the Crown Prince became qualified to fly himself. From 1998 until early-2017 Deachochai 3 operated independently of the RTAF organisation, purely as the (then) Crown Prince’s unit, operating:-

- the “904 Squadron” Northrop F-5’s;
- Bell 412’s HS-CPV & HS-MVK (both flown by Army pilots);
- Boeing 737 HS-HRH (delivered directly to Deachochai 3 Nov04);
- Boeing 737 HS-CMV (transferred from 602 Squadron in 2005)

For many years until 2017 all official VIP / VVIP / Royal flights were operated by 602 Squadron, part of their role being to serve as the Royal Flight. In early-2017 Deachochai 3 took over transport duties for the King, Queen and Consort (all three being qualified Boeing 737 flight crew) from 602 Squadron, adding the two Boeing 737-8Z6’s to their fleet. 602 Squadron continued to operate all official government VIP / VVIP flights, including those for minor Royals, with their four Airbus A319/A320/A340’s and three Sukhoi Superjets. 201 Squadron also have some Royal duties with their VVIP-configured Sikorsky S-70i/S-92’s.

Codes in the “11-111” format were historically used by the Royal Flight, even before the formation of 602 Squadron, these codes changing to the current “60201” format in 2005.

Summary Type List

The table below summarises the types which have been operated by the RTAF and its predecessors. Types in parentheses, thus (F1), indicate the role designators issued in retrospect in 1949 to aircraft long out-of-service.

A fully-detailed individual aircraft listing then follows.

Victory Squadron was a transport unit established by the government approval on 02May66 to be sent by RThaiAF to Vietnam. It was to send 2 C-123s with 27 crew to assist air transport in war zone. The unit left Thailand on 22Jly66 with C-123B's L4-9/09 &amp; L4-10/09. The unit later, in 1967, operated three C-123K's of the USAF's 19ACS (later 19TAS), 315TAW at Phan Rang, South Vietnam. These were painted in RTAF camouflage, titles, roundels etc as that unit had a number of crews seconded from the RThaiAF, although being USAF airframes they legally had to have at least one USAF crew member aboard. They retained their USAF unit tail code of 'WE'. They were never taken on RThaiAF charge, and the Thai crews were withdrawn in 1970. The three C-123K's involved were:-

	Paramount, CA and Dallas, TX to acquire a C-123 (56-4357) from the USAF stocks at MASDC Davis-Monthan, and re-engine it with turbo props. 56-4357 was sold to Mancro and departed MASDC on 01Jun79. Conversion work was started at Compton/Woodley Airport, CA, close to Mancro's facility in Paramount. Several improvements to the aircraft were made, the most important of which was the replacement of the R-2800-99W piston radials with new Allison T56-A-7 turboprops. The newly converted C-123T Provider first flew from Compton/Woodley Airport on 24Oct80, still in USAF camo, but with RThaiAF markings. After the test flight it became apparent that the T56 engine was too powerful and needed hydraulic pressure to move the control surfaces. Both wings had to be sealed to make them fuel tanks, and in order to gain the full benefit from new engine it was felt it should be pressurised. RThaiAF decided it was not cost-effective, and C-130's were bought instead

It is possible that XW-PGS escaped to Thailand in 1975, was allocated RTAF serial Ph.1-2/19 for administrative reasons, then 'sold' to the American owner whose quote is shown below. "In early 1975, I rescued this abandoned airplane from a hangar on an air base in northeast Thailand, to which it had been hurriedly flown by American members of an embassy flying club in Vientiane, Laos, just before the country fell to communists the previous year. I renovated it over two weeks, painted the current Indonesian registration letters, and flew it to Jakarta through tropical storms over Sumatra, flying it there for two years while assigned to the American Embassy. In Thailand, it had sat hangared under the wing of Laotian resistance General Vang Pao's DC-3"

The B.PhTh series below include aircraft operated by the Royal Thai Survey Department (RTSD).

In October 1982, an order was received to cease the aerial photographic flying program of the military aerial photographic group, which was an agency of the Military Mapping Department, Supreme Command Headquarters (ie. Royal Thai Army). The responsibility then became shared between the RTAF and the Military Mapping Department with eight borrowed aircraft fitted with aerial photography equipment. The RTAF received orders to raise a squadron to conduct this mission, resulting in the formation of 605 Squadron, initially as an auxiliary squadron until in May 1985 it became a regular squadron with RTAF.

The '8 borrowed aircraft' were probably:-

Aero Commander 690 11340	Beech King Air E-90 01769	Beech Queen Air A-80 01768	Beech Queen Air B-80 06892
Cessna 411A 0167	Cessna 411 0241	JetRanger 0872	Kawasaki KH-4 2042
Hughes 269A 62-0090 is another candidate

For completeness, the list below includes those RTSD aircraft which did not survive until 1982.
